

Context-rich beats high-volume every time

The best cold messages carry 3–5 pieces of provable context the prospect didn't expect you to know.

01

The raw materials of a real outbound

A closed-lost reason. A mutual connection. A signal from their stack. A line from something their leadership said publicly.

Already in your CRM, if you look

- 01 AE notes from the last call cycle
 - 02 Closed-lost reasons from the prior 6 months
 - 03 SDR mantra fields and pain tags
 - 04 Past champion movement and title changes
 - 05 Mutual connections surfaced by LinkedIn
-

3-5

pieces of context per message

Anything less reads like a template. Anything more reads like surveillance. Three to five is the sweet spot.

Volume is a tax. Context is a gift.

Stop sending more. Start sending messages that prove you actually know who this person is and why they're worth your time.